Georg Unterrainer

As your host and owner of the house, I place particular value on the personal care of my guests and, as the chef, I personally ensure their culinary well-being.

I pay particular attention to the regionality and sustainability of the products - quality is extremely important to me!

Creative cooking has always been my passion, and so there are always one or two culinary surprises for my guests.

As a father of four, I understand the needs of children, and they certainly are not neglected in my establishment.

I personally take care of the garden and playground - so to speak, as a balance and source of strength.

In short: Growing up in the hotel industry has captured my passion for gastronomy and never let go.
